"Look out for another corner in corn near the end of this month, unless our receipts greatly increase. The longer the 'shorts' put off covering the worse it will be for them," said H. J. Warren, this morning, as he glanced over the pit. "All the grain in Chicago," he continued, "is owned by not more than three persons. Farmers won't sell at these prices, and haven't got much to dispose of if they wanted to. The amount of contract stuff received don't average over 8 or 10 cars of received don't average over 8 or 10 cars o corn, and it must be a poor combination that couldn't take care of that. Nat Jones is selling pretty freely and there's a big erowd tailing after the noted bear, but they are certain to get into trouble."
